

Getting Started with Mastering General Chemistry

Mastering General Chemistry (MGC) is an online homework and tutoring system. Questions are designed to improve your skills by working through different types of problems. You will normally be given more than one attempt per question. You can view the grading policy for each assignment before you begin. If you get stuck during certain problems, you can click on the Hints button to be presented with sub-questions to help guide you through the original problem. Opening hints will not lower your overall score and it will help you get the correct result. If your submitted answer is incorrect, the MGC system will respond with specific feedback to help you see where you went wrong. Common mathematical and physical constants can be accessed through the upper-right Constants tab. The Periodic Table is available by clicking the Tools tab.
